The Carrs range embraces the most comprehensive variety of silverware manufactured in the UK, backed up by a young design team that ensures that the company stays in the forefront of world style and fashion, whilst still reflecting the best of British tradition.

One of the keys to success has been that of self-sufficiency, so much so that silver is melted, cast and rolled at one end of the factory and emerges at the other as a finished product. Woodworking and cutlery manufacturing divisions, together with the first in-house hallmarking operation provided by the Sheffield Assay Office, complete this unique self-contained manufacturing facility.

The recent acquisition by Carrs of the largest cutlery blanks manufacturing organisation in the UK, has now given the company access to probably the most comprehensive range of cutlery patterns to be found anywhere in Europe.

Carrs export to over 60 countries, representing 50% of its turnover. This achievement was recognised when Carrs received The Queens Award for Export Achievement. The company has also won Retail Jewellers Brand Object of the Year, more than once. A prestigious concession within the Luxury Rooms of Harrods heads up the 2500 plus UK outlets, offering everything from a sterling silver photograph frame to a bespoke canteen of cutlery.

Sterling silver has a minimum of 925 parts purity out of 1000, the remaining part being copper, which improves the malleability of the silver.

STERLING SILVER

The marks denote that each piece has been independently tested by one of the four official assay offices in the UK and that it conforms to the legal standards of fineness or purity.

Traditionally, sterling silver is the finest material for cutlery, guaranteed to last a lifetime. Carrs cutlery is beautifully crafted and finished to the highest quality, using traditional hand polishing methods. Sterling silver cutlery is designed to be used. It possesses inert properties that make it practical and aesthetic qualities that make it the most desirable of table top accessories. With regular use silver cutlery displays a most attractive 'patina', which is an optical effect, created by the multitude of very fine scratches that develop during normal use.

EPNS - ELECTRO PLATED NICKEL SILVER

EPNS cutlery features a coating of pure silver which is deposited by the process of electrolysis onto a brass alloy of copper, zinc and nickel, traditionally known as 'nickel silver'. Carrs cutlery is silver plated to a generous thickness of 20 microns, which under normal domestic use and following some simple 'care of cutlery' guidelines, carries a 50 year manufacturers guarantee. Over a period of time, silver plated cutlery will also display the same aesthetically pleasing patina characteristic of sterling silver cutlery.

18/10 STAINLESS STEEL

Stainless steel cutlery is strong, highly resistant to staining, scratching and abrasion. It is the overwhelming choice for most food preparation and serving applications. The 18/10 refers to the 18% chrome and 10% nickel content of the stainless steel alloy, which gives it all of these qualities, including its bright, silvery sheen.

KNIFE BLADES

All knife blades are made from high quality stainless steel, providing a strong, flexible and long lasting cutting edge.

The Opulent collection evokes a truly magnificent dining experience of grandeur and affluence
from a bygone age.

OPULENT

Cobourg

This design first appeared in the early Victorian period from the London workshops of Royal silversmith Paul Storr.

Its rich detail reflects the progression in tastes from the earlier designed Kings pattern.

Kings

Featuring the honeysuckle flower and shell motif this was designed at the same time as Queens by the brothers John and Henry Lias.

Available in Sterling Silver, EPNS and Stainless Steel.

Queens

The Queens design is a more elaborate version of Kings with Rococo style decoration of shells and foliate scrolls.

Credited to the silversmithing brothers John and Henry Lias in the 1830's.

La Regence

This design was introduced in France during the time of Napoleon II.

The flowing leaf pattern, shell and scroll edging are typical of the designs from this period. The flared handles on the spoon and fork reflect the continental patterns of the 19th Century.

Albany

A late Victorian design emanating out of the Sheffield cutlery community, featuring delicate fluting and capped with a neat finial.

Gadroon

Inspired by French design and brought to England by Huguenot craftsmen and incorporated into English cutlery by T. Evans Silversmiths in 1769.

Lily

This beautiful pattern was created in the 1850's by an unnamed Sheffield designer who took inspiration from the elegant shape of the lily flower.

This design anticipates the Art Nouveau styling of the early 1900's with the emphasis on a bold flowing border.

Similar in shape but more finely decorated than the Kings design.

This pattern originated in Sheffield during the early 1900's.

The Classic collection offers patterns of cutlery with a subtle introduction of elegant decoration.

These patterns would have graced the dining tables of many fine houses throughout Europe over the last 200 years.

CLASSIC

Feather Edge

Based on the Old English pattern, this design was originally hand engraved using a technique known as feathering.

Jesmond

Designed by W. Pulling and
W. Turner of Sheffield in 1925 with a single line border and simple scroll at the handle tip.

French Leaf

A European influenced design featuring a tulip style border with simple scroll finials.

Bead

Inspired by the simple beauty of a string of pearls.

Hester Bateman, a leading English lady silversmith, created this timeless beaded border in a Neo Classical style during the latter half of the 18th Century.

Available in Sterling Silver, EPNS and Stainless Steel.

Victorian Bead

An attractive decoration of a pear drop, ribbon and husk, originally hand engraved on a traditional Bead pattern.

Based on a design by the celebrated lady silversmith Hester Bateman, in the late 18th Century.

English Reed & Ribbon

A bold continental shape featuring a double reed border with ribbon cross binding and bow.

Available in Sterling Silver, EPNS and Stainless Steel.

Empire

An Old English outline with a double reed border with ribbon cross binding and foliate detail.

Dubarry

A 20th Century pattern inspired by the free flowing designs of the renowned 18th Century cabinet maker Thomas Chippendale.

Available in Sterling Silver, EPNS and Stainless Steel.

Fiddle Thread & Shell

Derived from the earlier Plain Fiddle pattern, this finely decorated variation continues to be a timeless classic in English cutlery design.

Lotus

Designed in Sheffield around the 1930's and influenced by the Art Nouveau movement.

This pattern features a stylised lotus flower sculptured into an unusual pointed handle shape.

The Elegant collection brings together a diverse fusion of understated simplistic designs, from the Old English pattern originating in the 18th Century, to the innovative and contemporary Vision pattern of today.

ELEGANT

Old English

Originating in the 1760's during the reign of King George III.

This ever popular pattern's appeal, lies in its graceful lines and simple decorative pip.

Vision

A truly ground breaking contemporary design by Charles Phillip Simpson.

Sweeping ergonomic curves distinguish the spoons and forks, whilst the knife has a striking new asymmetrical handle which is a delight to hold.

Available in Sterling Silver, EPNS and Stainless Steel.

English Thread

A popular pattern of continental proportions, defined by a simple continuous single thread.

Baguette

A classic French interpretation of an English style with generous continental proportions, created in the late 1920's.

Available in Sterling Silver, EPNS and Stainless Steel.

Simplicity

A contemporary take on the Fiddle design enhanced only by a subtle pip.

Complemented by a version of the Cannon handle knife capped with a striking finial.

Rattail

The oldest of the English designs dating from the early 1600's.

With a distinctive tail on the reverse of the spoon bowl and fork and a prominent rib featured on the front of the handle.

Available in Sterling Silver, EPNS and Stainless Steel.

Grecian

A simple classical style with Art Deco influences.

With its uncomplicated bevelled and angular edges this pattern remains an ever popular design.

Available in Sterling Silver, EPNS and Stainless Steel.

Harley

Designed by Sheffield cutlery in the mid 1930's, this pattern was heavily influenced by the softer lines of the earlier Grecian pattern.

Available in Sterling Silver, EPNS and Stainless Steel.

Plain Fiddle

One of the oldest English patterns, originating in the 18th Century and taking its name from a tenuous connection to the body shape of a violin.

A simple pip on the reverse of the handle gives reference to its Old English heritage.

Carrs have established a highly regarded reputation for its bespoke cutlery service, based upon its in-house abilities to engrave, gold embellish and enamel.

This variety of specialist techniques can be individually tailored to suit any customer requirements.

Bespoke Cutlery

Bespoke Cabinets

BESPOKE

The above illustration shows a fully gold plated knife handle.

Bespoke Cutlery

Any pattern of Carrs cutlery can be embellished to create a distinctive and unique dinner service. A variety of decorative options are available combining traditional craftsmanship and exquisite finishes.

ENGRAVING

From a commemorative date or monogramme to elaborate family crests, any design can be realised.

KNIFE BLADE ETCHING

Further customisation may be achieved by the application of a design to the steel blade.

GOLD EMBELLISHMENT

The application of 24ct fine gold to highlight aspects of the design or to fully gold plate each piece of cutlery.

ENAMELLING

The hand application of a palette of jewel like opaque or translucent colours to accentuate the design and deep relief of many cutlery patterns.

Individually or combined, any of the above effects will achieve a stunning bespoke result.

Diablo cabinet with example of inlaid sterling silver plaque featuring an engraved crest.

Bespoke Cabinets

Complementing our bespoke cutlery finishes, Carrs are also able to offer a unique and comprehensive, design and manufacture facility for bespoke cabinets.

Our specialist workshops will undertake individual commissions to create canteen cabinets and tables that reflect the personal tastes and requirements of our discerning customers.

From the modification of existing cabinet designs, for example the addition of extra drawers or fittings, to the visualisation, design and manufacture of cabinets inspired by customers own concepts.

All requests will be expedited by our highly skilled and experienced, design and production teams, based at the Carrs Sheffield workshops.
